WE RECOGNIZE THAT THE IMPORTANT WORK OF PREVENTION HAPPENS EVERY DAY.

National Prevention Week promotes the world we want to see—where prevention helps keep people and communities healthy and safe.

Our tagline, “A Celebration of Possibility,” is about communities coming together and celebrating the brighter futures that exist thanks to the ongoing work of prevention.

NATIONAL PREVENTION WEEK TAKES PLACE MAY 12–18, 2024.

This Planning Guide & Resource Calendar is packed with tips and tools for elevating prevention efforts during National Prevention Week and beyond!

FEATURED:
Social Media Platform Overview and Tips.
Here’s how to stay engaged with National Prevention Week activities on social media.

ZERO HIV STIGMA DAY

WHEN PROMOTING YOUR NATIONAL PREVENTION WEEK EVENTS AND ACTIVITIES, IT IS VITAL TO MAXIMIZE YOUR EFFORTS BY REGULARLY ENGAGING WITH YOUR INTENDED AUDIENCE. FACEBOOK, INSTAGRAM, X (FORMERLY TWITTER), YOUTUBE, TIKTOK, AND OTHER DIGITAL MEDIA PLATFORMS, AS WELL AS EMAIL MARKETING, CAN HELP YOU REACH A LARGER AUDIENCE QUICKLY AT MINIMAL OR NO COST. IF YOUR GROUP OR ORGANIZATION HAS SOCIAL MEDIA ACCOUNTS, THEN IT IS LIKELY THAT YOU ARE ALREADY USING THEM TO PROMOTE YOUR WORK.

WHEN CONSIDERING WHICH DIGITAL PLATFORMS AND SOCIAL NETWORKS TO USE, THERE ARE THREE KEY THINGS TO CONSIDER:

1. Target Audience
   Who is your target audience(s)? Where are they most represented online and on social media? Where do they get their information?

2. Objectives and Purpose.
   What is the purpose of your online activities? How will your social media messages and content support your larger social marketing/communications strategy? What is the action that you want your engaged audiences to take?

3. Process and Resources.
   What resources do you have to devote to your social and digital media strategy? Consider potential writers, graphic designers, social media publishers, and community managers. Who needs to review and approve copy? Do you have someone who can respond quickly to time-sensitive posts on your social media accounts? Take a look at your marketing budget to see if you can invest in social media advertisements. A little bit can go a long way! How will you evaluate your efforts?

HERE ARE SOME WAYS TO GET STARTED WITH PLANNING PROMOTIONAL ACTIVITIES ON SOCIAL MEDIA:

• Invest the time in developing strong promotional content (e.g., brief messages, graphics, or videos).
• Manage a social media editorial content calendar to maintain active and engaged accounts.
• Respond to and engage with comments accordingly.
• Ask staff members or volunteers who have personal accounts to help promote the activities and events through their personal profiles.

If you want to highlight a mental health or substance misuse issue in a visual way with the potential to reach a large audience, consider creating a video public service announcement (PSA). The following are some general guidelines and tips for how to create a PSA for your prevention event.

1. Decide whether a video PSA is the right format for your message. Nowadays, there are many avenues for getting the word out to audiences about an issue. Before moving full speed ahead, determine whether the benefits and costs of creating a video PSA are appropriate for your organization and cause.

2. Identify your topic. Pinpoint the mental health or substance misuse topic your organization wants to focus on.

3. Develop the key messages you want your audience to absorb. Are there current events or news stories that make some topics particularly relevant?

4. Research the topic. Make sure that any data or claims you plan to include in the PSA are backed by research and evidence.

5. Identify your audience. Clarify whom the PSA’s main message is for. Researching and understanding what this audience cares about can help target your message and final product.

6. Determine the distribution method and “hook.” Think about how the PSA will be distributed or viewed, such as through local and national TV channels, YouTube, or your organization’s website, or at a special event. Particularly if you plan to contact TV stations, consider what makes your topic newsworthy and important to the media. What will make the producer say, “I can’t let this PSA slip through my fingers”?

7. Create an outline. Write down the major points you want to convey in the PSA and start to structure the flow of the video. Also, decide on an appropriate length for the PSA. Typically, they are 30 or 60 seconds long. Fifteen-second PSAs may be more appropriate if your main distribution method will be social media channels.

8. Write a script. Write the narration and dialogue for the PSA. Use simple, conversational language. Keep your sentences concise and to the point. Read your script aloud and time its length to make sure you’re on target. It also may be helpful to create a script with two columns: one for the video’s audio content, and one to describe visuals that accompany the audio. Even if your PSA doesn’t feature anyone speaking, you’ll still want to write any text that will appear on screen and create storyboards to organize the flow of text and images.

9. Film and produce the video. Your organization may have an in-house production team, or you may need to research and contact an outside production team that can help film and polish your PSA. If you plan to create a PSA for TV distribution, using a professional video production vendor is recommended.

10. TIPS FOR CREATING YOUR OWN VIDEO PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

QUICK TIP

A public service announcement can be an important and meaningful part of planning for next year’s National Prevention Week.
Why Small Conversations Make a Big Impression

Short, frequent discussions can have a positive impact on your child's decisions about alcohol and other drug use. Talking with your child about the risks and dangers of underage drinking and other drug use at an early age is the first step toward keeping them substance-free. But as they enter middle school and high school, the pressure to try alcohol and other drugs increases. It's important to continue these conversations throughout the middle school, high school, and young adult years. The lessons they learn early on will influence the decisions they make about substance use in adulthood.

Ongoing conversations build an open, trusting relationship with your child. Kids are more likely to avoid drinking alcohol and using other drugs when they have a strong, trusting relationship with their parents or caregivers. Get into the habit of chatting with your child every day. It will make it easier to have serious conversations about underage drinking and other drug use and will encourage them to come to you for advice.

Lots of little talks are more effective than one "big talk." Sitting down for the "big talk" about alcohol and other drugs can be intimidating for both you and your child. Try using everyday opportunities to talk with them—in the car, on the bus or subway, during dinner, or while watching TV or playing video games. Having many little talks takes the pressure off trying to get all the information out in one lengthy discussion, and they will be less likely to tune you out.

Make your views and rules clear. Take the time to discuss your beliefs and expectations about underage drinking and other drug use with your child. Review the risks and dangers of drinking alcohol and using other drugs so you're prepared to answer any of their questions. Be honest and express a clear, consistent message that all substance use is unacceptable. When they feel that you're being real and honest with them, they'll be more likely to respect your rules.
In today’s digital information age, we rely on myriad resources to gather information about substance misuse prevention and what’s happening in our local communities. Despite the many ways we can consume news— in print, online, and in person—there are tried and true sources we turn to for credible information about our communities and our children’s health. In fact, media outlets continue to be critical sources of information for local communities nationwide.

Media outreach can be one of the most cost-effective ways to educate people about substance misuse prevention and promote positive mental health. Investing your time in outreach will help you build relationships and become a reliable resource for reporters. This tip sheet provides guidance on how to engage media so that your National Prevention Week activities can have the greatest impact.

Communicate Your Message Effectively
When working with the media, be prepared to tell your story and respond to questions. All media outreach materials should be concise and persuasive. Media outlets and reporters receive numerous pitches for stories every day, so your materials need to convince reporters quickly and effectively that your event will be a worthwhile story for their paper, website, blog, or broadcast.

Focus on the where, when, and why of your event when creating your outreach materials, and only highlight details that are relevant to current issues in your community. You will have time to share other important information with reporters during a follow-up call, during interviews, and when they attend your event.

Another effective way to communicate your story to the media is to create a set of key messages or talking points and incorporate them into all of your media outreach materials. Consider creating two or three short messages that highlight the mission or purpose of your event, your event’s theme, and a call to action. It’s also helpful for your talking points to include important details, such as the event’s date, time, and location.

Media outreach is a cost-effective way to educate people about substance misuse prevention and promote positive mental health. This quick guide offers tips for working with media.
Harm reduction is an important approach to overdose prevention. It uses public health strategies to empower people who use drugs to live healthy, self-directed, and purpose-filled lives.

Drinking alcohol can lead to impaired motor coordination, placing you at a greater risk of being injured from falls or vehicle accidents and deaths. While intoxicated, you are more likely to engage in dangerous behaviors such as arguments, fights, and sexual assaults. Drinking may also lead to impaired judgment, impairing your ability to make good decisions and place you at risk for overdose and death.
