SAMHSA Strategic Initiative: Military Service Members, Veterans, and Their Families (2013-2014)

A. Kathryn Power, M. Ed. Strategic Initiative Lead
"I fear they do not know us. I fear they do not comprehend the full weight of the burden we carry or the price we pay when we return from battle. This is important, because a people uninformed about what they are asking the military to endure is a people inevitably unable to fully grasp the scope of the responsibilities our Constitution levies upon them."

Admiral Mike Mullen
(Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff)

History of SAMHSA’s Military Families Strategic Initiative

• Started in 2005 because grantee/provider agencies noticed an increase of military/veteran populations who sought community-based services and requesting guidance from SAMHSA

• Developed voluntary internal workgroup to establish goals and activities

• Established linkages and contacts at both leadership and programmatic levels at DoD, VA and Military Component Commands.

• Co-Chaired a psychological health workgroup for PSD-9/Interagency Policy Council representing HHS producing the President’s Report “Strengthening Our Military Families.”

• Officially designated a SAMHSA strategic priority in 2010.
Purpose of the Strategic Initiative

• Support America’s service men and women—Active Duty, National Guard, Reserve, and Veterans—together with their families and communities by leading efforts to ensure needed behavioral health services are accessible and outcomes are positive.
Strategic Initiative #4: Goals for Military Families

• Improve military families’ access to community-based behavioral health care through coordination among SAMHSA, TRICARE, DoD, and Veterans Health Administration services

• Improve the quality of behavioral health prevention, treatment, and recovery support services by helping providers respond to the needs within the military family culture

• Promote the behavioral health of military families with programs and evidence-based practices that support their resilience and emotional health and prevent suicide

• Develop an effective and seamless behavioral health service system for military families through coordination of policies and resources across federal, national, state, territorial, tribal, and local organizations
Behavioral Health Facts Among this Population

• Almost 18.5 percent of service members returning from Iraq or Afghanistan have post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) or depression, and 19.5 percent report experiencing a traumatic brain injury (TBI) during deployment.
• In 2008, 47 percent of all current DoD service personnel were binge drinkers.
• Nearly 50 percent of service members who need treatment for mental health conditions seek it, but only slightly more than half who receive treatment receive adequate care.
• In 2010, the Army’s suicide rate among active-duty soldiers dropped slightly (162 in 2009; 156 in 2010), but the number of suicides in the National Guard and Reserve increased by 55 percent (80 in 2009; 145 in 2010).
Behavioral Health Facts Among this Population

• Mental and substance use disorders caused more hospitalizations among U.S. troops in 2009 than any other cause

• According to the Departments of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and Veterans Affairs (VA), nearly 76,000 veterans were homeless on a given night in 2009. Some 136,000 veterans spent at least one night in a shelter during that year
Deployments Are Hard on Families Too

- Cumulative lengths of deployments are associated with more emotional difficulties among military children and mental health diagnoses among U.S. Army wives.
- Children of deployed military personnel have more school-, family-, and peer-related emotional difficulties, compared with national samples.
