

TV and Film Production Nomination Form

Join SAMHSA's Voice Awards program to recognize television and film professionals whose work educates the public about behavioral health and demonstrates that people with mental health and/or substance use disorders can and do recover and lead meaningful lives in their communities.

If you know of a television or film production that aired in a public setting after April 15, 2013, which contains a positive behavioral health storyline, please nominate it for a 2014 Voice Award.

In 2014, the theme of the awards program is the behavioral health of young adults and their experiences in dealing with mental health and/or substance use disorders. Special consideration therefore will be given to television and film productions that accurately and respectfully portray the behavioral health experiences of young adults and their journeys of recovery.

Nominations are open to anyone and there is no limit to the number of nominations an individual can submit.

To make a nomination, please indicate the following information and try to be as specific as possible.

Title of production: _____

Episode name and/or number (If applicable): _____

Format of production (television show, film or documentary): _____

Outlet of production (television or cable network): _____

Reason for nomination (150 words maximum): _____
